ROYAL OAK, MIGHTY BRITISH BATTLESHIP, SUNK BY SUBMARINE

Tragedy Surpasses Even The Sinking of The Aircraft-Carrier Courageous

HAD CREW OF OVER 1000

Royal Oak Was One of Seven Largest British War Craft

By Charles A. Smith
I. N. S. Staff Correspondent

LONDON, Oct. 14.—(INS)—Britain's navy rocked under its most staggering loss of the war today when the powerful battleship Royal Oak was sunk—presumably by a German U-boat.

There is an apparent loss of 830 lives.

Surpassing even the catastrophe of the aircraft carrier Courageous, torpedoed and sent to the bottom of the North Sea a month ago, sinking of the Royal Oak cost the navy 29,150 tons of her best sea fighting equipment.

As survivors began to reach shore and anxious relatives scanned lists posted by the Admiralty, the number of casualties among the more than 1000 members of the Royal Oak's crew was not immediately known.

Britain's jubilation over the sinking of three German submarines yesterday turned to deepest gloom at this smashing triumph of the Nazi under-seas fleet, for the famed Royal Oak, modernized veteran of the battle of Jutland and Spanish civil war, was one of the seven largest war craft in Britannia's navy.

A communique announced: "The secretary to the admiralty regrets to announce that H. M. S. Royal Oak has been sunk, it is believed by U-boat action."

Sinking of the Royal Oak marks the greatest disaster the British Navy has suffered in the war.

A heavily-armed craft of 29,150 tons, she is in the second class of British battle wagons, ranking only below the Nelson and Rodney.

The aircraft carrier Courageous, torpedoed and sunk a month ago with the loss of 509 lives, was a 22,500-ton ship. Loss of life aboard the Royal Oak was not stated in the first admiralty bulletin, but she carried a complement of between 1000 and 1150 men.

The Royal Oak was a veteran of the World War, having been launched on Nov. 17, 1914, not long after the conflict broke out. Costing somewhat less than her four sister-ships, the Royal Oak was worth, when built, $12,300,000. She was refitted between 1922 and 1924.

As word of the disaster to the Navy spread through the country, thousands of wives and other relatives of the crew flocked to the admiralty and newspaper offices anxiously awaiting the first news about the dead.

No further word, however, will be given out for the time being, the admiralty said.

It was assumed that the battleship was with other units of the British grand fleet on blockade patrol duty in the North Sea, somewhere east of Scotland.

Five hundred eighty feet long, and 102 feet wide, the Royal Oak carried eight 15-inch guns, twelve six-inch, and fourteen of smaller calibre. She had two torpedo tubes.

Only the Nelson and Rodney, carrying nine 16-inch guns, are more heavily armed.

To sink the Royal Oak the submarine's deadly missiles had to penetrate armor plate varying in thickness from 4 to 13 inches, besides protective bulkheads.

Of striking appearance, the Royal

Newtown Miss is Bride Of Hulmeville Resident

At a marriage ceremony in Newtown Methodist Church, Miss Anna Kathryn Allinson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John D. Allinson, Newtown, became the wife of Everett Franklin Johnson, son of Mrs. Fredrick F. Johnson, Hulmeville, on Saturday, the Rev. Charles A. Boraston officiating.

The bride wore a princess gown of white satin, with a long veil trimmed with deep lace. She carried white madonna lilies.

Mrs. Charles A. Johnson, George School, matron of honor, was attired in nubby taffeta trimmed in dabbonet velvet. The bridesmaids were Miss Alma Jorgensen and Miss May Jorgensen, Hagersville, Pa., twin cousins of the bride. They wore gowns of skipper blue taffeta trimmed in dabbonet velvet.

Norman Foster, Bristol, was best man. The ushers were Charles A. Johnson, George School, brother of the bridegroom, and John N. Allinson, brother of the bride.

Elsa Margaret Allinson, sister of the bride, was flower girl and wore an old-fashioned white moire gown and ageratum wreath. Jesse Eggleston, nephew of the bridegroom, was ring bearer.

Miss Estella Pownall was organist and accompanied Miss Grace Sherman who sang two solos.

Mr. and Mrs. Johnson will reside at 150 North State street, Newtown.

Breaks Both Wrists And Nose in A 20-Foot Fall

Bernard Dennen, 257 Jackson street, in a 20-foot fall yesterday suffered a broken nose, and both wrists were broken. He was also treated at Harrison Hospital for lacerations of the lip and face, several stitches being required.

Dennen was engaged at the time in washing windows at the Wilson Distilling Company, Inc. It was stated at the plant this morning, that Dennen was cleaning windows on the outside, at a height about 20 feet from the ground. It was reported from the plant that Dennen evidently stepped from the ladder to the window ledge, and momentarily lost his grip, hurtling to the ground.

He was removed to the hospital in the ambulance of Bucks County Rescue Squad, of which organization he is a member.

2 SCHOOLS IN COUNTY TO CONDUCT NIGHT CLASSES

Doylestown and Quakertown Plan Evening Courses For Adult Students

TO OPEN MARCH 18TH

Two school districts in Bucks county are completing plans for night classes. An adult night school will be conducted at Doylestown and in Quakertown an adult evening school will be sponsored from October 23rd to March 18th.

The school night courses at Doylestown will begin Tuesday, October 31, and will continue for ten weeks.

The classes will be held in the Doylestown school building and registrations may be made on Tuesday, October 24, from 7.30 until 9.30 in the evening.

The six courses to be given include art, bridge, typing, physical education for men, sewing, and current events.

Peter Cooke, a well-known artist, will teach art.

Dr. Daniel H. Thomas, Temple University history instructor, will teach a current events class with special reference to backgrounds of the problems of Europe and how it effects the United States.

The instructor for contract bridge has not been selected as yet.

Miss Blanche W. Clifton, Doylestown High School commercial teacher, will teach typing.

Physical education for men will be in charge of William L. Lowther, assistant high school instructor of athletics and former Thiel College athlete. This year, unlike the classes which were held last year, the work will involve formal calisthenics and supervised recreation.

Under the supervision of Miss Verna E. Smith, junior and senior high school home economics teacher, sewing will be taught.

Miss Mabel Frankfield, school secretary, is treasurer.

At Quakertown, night classes will be held Monday, Tuesday and Thursday nights.

Classes to be conducted include: Machine Shop Practice—A course intended for men equipped as machinists, garage mechanics, loom fixers, or any occupation related to metal work. Those who want to learn any phase of the metal trades should enroll in this course. The new metal shop is now fully equipped and will be used by this class. Work in sheet metal will be offered to those who want it. Courses will be taught by Elwood P. MacWhorter, Mondays.

General Metal Work—For men who want to know something about running lathe, making sheet metal or art metal projects, wrought iron work, etc. This is a course for amateurs or home craftsmen. Mr. MacWhorter will teach this course also, Tuesdays.

Woodworking (Vocational) — For men who are employed in the wood-working trades. Also for men who could use a knowledge of woodworking in allied occupations. This course will begin one week later, October 31. Ralph C. Wenrich will teach this work, Tuesdays.

Woodworking (Hobby) — This course is also open to men who want to learn something about woodworking as a hobby. This is a home craftsman's course. This course will also begin one week later, October 30. Mr. Wenrich will have this group also on Mondays.

Carpentry (Steel Square)—The use of the steel square will be taught especially in connection with roof framing, stair building, etc. This course is open to all men working at Carpentry and those who would like to get into this field. This course will run for ten weeks, beginning October 26, on Thursdays.

Mechanical Drawing — This course will cover the fundamentals of orthographic and isometric drawing and the use of instruments in the making of these drawings. Also, special work will be planned for advanced students including those who completed the course last year. The work will be adapted to individual needs. Andrew Varga will teach this course, Thursdays.

Shop Mathematics — For men who use mathematics in their daily occupations.

King Leopold To Broadcast

Brussels, Oct. 14.—King Leopold of Belgium will broadcast to the United States on Thursday, October 26, it was announced today. The time will be given later.

Three-Alarm Fire

Phila., Oct. 14.—Three buildings in an old down-town industrial area were swept early today by a three-alarm fire which caused $50,000 to $100,000 damage to eight business firms.

Hampered by stiff winds and alleged "antiquated" fire doors, firemen labored almost two hours to save adjacent structures. Acting Battalion Chief Joseph Gindele was taken to a hospital when his left eye was pierced by a splinter of glass. The blaze apparently started on the second floor of a lamp manufacturing concern.

Re-Elect Mrs. Fox

Reading, Oct. 14.—Mrs. R. M. Fox, of Morrisville, today was re-elected as president of the Southeastern Pennsylvania branch of the Parent-Teacher Association. Other officers elected at the initial session of the two-day convention were: William Kuebler, Secane, first vice-president; Mrs. John A. Flood, New Hope, second vice-president; Mrs. Philip Platt, New Hope, secretary; and Mrs. Norman Gemmille, Stewartsville, treasurer.

TEACHERS' INSTITUTE TO BE HELD OCTOBER 27TH

Dr. Frank W. Wright To Be One of The Principal Speakers

INTERESTING PROGRAM

The first day of the annual Bucks County Teachers' Institute will be held in the Court House at Doylestown, Friday, October 27. Sessions at 9 a. m. and 1 p. m.

One of the outstanding speakers during the two sessions will be Salom Rizk, the "Syrian Yankee" who will address the audience on "The Americanization of An Immigrant" and "The Education of An Immigrant."

Another outstanding speaker will be Dr. Frank W. Wright, formerly Commissioner of Education in the State of Massachusetts. Dr. Wright served on the Advisory Commission on Education by appointment of President Roosevelt to make a study on Federal Aid for Education. Dr. Wright is a co-author with Dr. Payson Smith on the report "Education in Forty-eight States."

Teachers will again select in what manner they will qualify for the second day attendance of the institute as they did last year.

The music will be in charge of music instructors in the county schools.

Voltz Texaco Club Is Formed in Sixth Ward

"The Voltz Texaco Club" was formed a few days ago and the membership will consist of boys from the sixth ward. The ages will range from 16 to 23 and thus far about 50 boys have joined.

At a recent meeting officers were elected as follows: President, "Fibs" Panini; "Yads" Shokels, vice-president; Albert Boccardo, treasurer. A club house has been procured.

The club was formed to bring the young men of the sixth ward together and to encourage sportsmanship. It is planned to have such sports as basketball, baseball and bowling. The group now plans to enter the Suburban League in basketball, the Twilight League in baseball and will be active on the bowling alleys.

FIND WIRE IN COW

NEW LONDON, O. — (INS) — When Dr. S. T. Reich, New London veterinary diagnosed the trouble of an ailing cow, belonging to Mrs. Hattie Parker, as due to "presence of foreign substance in the body, probably in the stomach," he wasn't wrong.

After giving the cow an anaesthetic and operating, Dr. Reich found five inches of baling wire and a .22 calibre rifle bullet in the upper stomach.

CONDUCT FIRE DRILLS IN THREE SCHOOLS HERE

Children Evacuated From The Schools in Quick Time On Signals

INSPECT ONE THEATRE

Yesterday, in connection with "Fire Prevention Week," drills were held in four schools here and an inspection made of one theatre. The drills and inspection were made by Edward A. McIlvaine, deputy of Department of Labor and Industry; Clifford Hagerman, chief of Bristol Consolidated Fire Department, and Charles Gosline, of the paid staff of Bristol Consolidated Department.

At the Bath street public school building 235 children were evacuated in 58 seconds. Three hundred and seventy-five children fled out of the Jefferson avenue building in one minute and 15 seconds.

At the Bristol high school building, 1,074 children were out of the building in two minutes and 20 seconds.

St. Ann's school building was completely vacant of 507 children in one minute and 35 seconds.

A thorough inspection was made of the Grand Theatre and conditions were found to be satisfactory.

Miss Daniels Presented With Gifts at Shower

Miss Nan Townsend, 804 Mansion street, was a pleasing hostess at her home on Thursday evening at a linen shower, given in honor of Miss Elizabeth Daniels, Bath street.

The decorative arrangement was small watering pots, and the gifts for Miss Daniels were hidden throughout the house.

The evening was enjoyed in games, and prizes given to Miss Lillian Rogers and Miss Elizabeth Daniels. Refreshments concluded the evening.

Those participating were: the Misses Charlotte Rathke, Helen Burlewold, Lillian Rogers, Alberta Larzelere, Viola McAuley; Mrs. Fred Herman, Jr., Mrs. James Daniels, Mrs. Louis Townsend.

ISSUE SUMMONS FOR OVERDUE COMPENSATION

Served on F. S. Cook & Son, Inc., Yardley Printing Concern

FIRST BUCKS CO. CASE

DOYLESTOWN, Oct. 14 — A summons has been served through the office of the Bucks County Sheriff on F. S. Cook & Son, Inc., of Yardley, in an action of assumpsit of Dauphin county, for the purpose of collecting delinquent compensation due the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.

According to an official in the office here of the Pennsylvania Unemployment Compensation Dept., it is the first case of prosecution in Bucks county of contributors who are delinquent in paying unemployment compensation.

The Yardley printing concern is charged in a statement of claim, which came from the Attorney General Claude T. Reno, of the Department of Labor and Industry, of the division of unemployment compensation and employment service, with being delinquent from the first quarter of 1938 which amounts to at least $250.

A Doylestown branch official today said several other cases are pending in the county and similar action will be taken unless the delinquencies are paid.

The summons, which was served through the office of the Sheriff, was issued after a statement of claim was filed in the Dauphin County Courts. It was served on Tuesday.

Of interest to Bucks county employers is the action taken by the Commonwealth because some of the delinquent contributors have not been taking the non-payment of unemployment compensation seriously and expressed the idea that the State would not prosecute.

A Rich County

(By "The Stroller")

I was enlightened on a recent ride through lower Bucks County. Well did I know that it is rich in farm land and products of the farm, in industries, in nice homes, and in industrious population.

But a slow ride through the more rural of the roads is productive of enlightenment and information.

I watched as 40 or 50 men, all ages, and nationalities, cut kale by the bushel from acres that seemed to stretch on and on; watched while farmers dug potatoes either by machine or hand, and could have stayed for hours to see the machine turn out the potatoes nicely, to be readily picked up.

Apples were being picked, cider pressed, pears hung in profusion, the sweet corn was at the end of a bountiful season. Smell of aging cabbage was in the air, with an occasional "whiff" of savory canning as a farm-house was passed in close proximity.

SACRIFICE OF SOME LIBERTIES REQUIRED FOR ORDER IN WORLD

Until Nations Learn This We Will Not Have Peace, Says Mrs. Goodwin

SPEAKS TO WOMEN

Mt. Airy Resident Brings Current Events Message To Travel Club

"America Looks at The World," was the chosen subject of Mrs. Elizabeth S. Goodwin, Mt. Airy, when she brought the first of a series of three current events talks scheduled for this season to The Travel Club yesterday afternoon.

Mrs. Goodwin, who was former chairman of international relations, Philadelphia Federation of Women's Clubs, prefaced her address by pointing out that although mankind has developed means of instantaneous communication, he has in his stupidity used those means of communication and likewise other marvelous feats of engineering, for his own destruction. Enlarging upon this particular phase of the subject she reminded of propaganda sent out over the radio networks in certain countries, and of how engineering has been used toward destruction of mankind in time of conflict.

"These great gifts to mankind may prove man's own extinction," was one pertinent thought driven home to the club-women assembled to listen to the enlightening talk on world affairs.

Reminding of the prevalent talk during the past few years in regard to the nations designated as the "have nots," Mrs. Goodwin said: "These countries may not have access to resources in the quantities they need, yet we must and they must admit that the 'have-nots' have not used what resources they have for the advancement of their people."

The great change in Western Europe in the last few decades was given deep consideration. "We thought, years ago, of Western Europe as a Christian world, but some nations in that part of the globe have no regard for Christianity today."

Some of the more glaring mistakes on the part of Adolf Hitler were pointed out, including the taking of Czechoslovakia and his pact with Stalin. "The result of the latter is," commented the speaker, "that Russia apparently is the winner to date, and the eyes of the world are on the Kremlin in Moscow." She continued by mentioning the alarm on the part of some European democracies, namely, Sweden, Denmark and Norway.

Busy Turkey, who wants nothing to interfere with her peace, was given consideration, and her non-aggression pact with England of a few months back was recalled, with the subsequent facing of her problem in regard to Russia.

The vast sums, well over a million dollars a day, which Switzerland is forced to pay to protect herself, was another point of consideration in world affairs, "and that sum is a vast one for a small non-industrial country."

The internal problem of Germany, who in 1938 imported 66% of her oil, and 69% of her iron, was brought to the fore. Whereas she formerly received her oil supply from Mexico and Venezuela, it is now more difficult to get from those sources. "And Italy can't supply it, inasmuch as Italy needs more than she can supply."

The speaker later mentioned among "the things we don't know": Just where Russia stands; Italy's situation; and what America's position on neutrality will be. "But there is one thing we are certain of, as Chamberlain has already said, and that is that there will be a different kind of world entirely after this war."

The tremendous seriousness of the problem for England and France was appreciated; and the Philadelphian made it plain that even though Americans wish to keep free of the mess in Europe, nevertheless indifference does not seem to be the answer. "One hundred and twenty million people can't be indifferent," she said, adding that many are of the opinion that instead of a neutrality act, it should be known as a "National Security Act."

"Who can say we will avoid incidents that might lead to involvement? What is the answer to the whole problem? . . . Our neutrality law did nothing to help the peace of the world. There are expressions of horror on all sides over treatment of some nations by other nations, yet we do nothing," she added, as she mentioned the shipping of scrap iron from this country to Japan, quoting a medical missionary to China as stating, "You ship the scrap iron across the seas, and I take it out of their bodies."

In conclusion, Mrs. Goodwin said: Continued on Page Three

BOOMERANG PROPAGANDA

An assumption that British officialdom is stupid because it is slow is not invariably safe, even when held by other Britons, as it has been in the matter of releasing war information.

Slow it surely is, as we have reason to know. Meanwhile, the Germans have been very accommodating in providing timely pictures of their feats of arms in Poland, of the irresistible progress of a great mechanized army across a prostrate land, of bombers raining destruction, and tanks and artillery spraying death on every hand. It all testifies to Nazi military might, and is calculated to dazzle and impress. The question remains if, in the long view, this is not poorer propaganda for its sponsors than it is for the Allies.

It portrays in a very graphic way the reason why Britain and France are committed to a war which will exterminate Hitlerism. As long as the rest of Europe remains under the threat of the things revealed and implied in these pictures from Poland, life in its ordinary meaning is impossible, the Allies contend.

The propagandists of London could wish for nothing better to illustrate the point of their case than the material provided the world by the efficient information service of the Nazi war office. Often the "stupidity" of the Briton in the public service is only seeming; and so it may be here. Why should he interfere now if the foe is offering an eloquent, if unintended, exposition of the case for the Allies?

ON FIELD AND WOODLAND

Now that we have embarked on the fall of the year, the interests of men with guns and dogs as well as those who go into the hinterland equipped only with a camera are concerned about the statistics which have to do with prevalence of game. So far as can be learned from the reports of those whose business it is to keep a close check on this situation, it may be observed that game is plentiful this year.

Conservation in field and stream and woodland appears to have been a successful project in the last few years. In the forests and prairie lands of the United States and Canada increases in many forms of wild life are indicated by the reports. It promises to be a good year for sportsmen, who are charged with the responsibility of observing the rules.

What Do You Know About Health?

By FISHER BROWN and NAT FALK

Answers: 1. Yes. A reasonable amount is required to keep your heart and lungs in tune, to stimulate circulation, to preserve a correct posture which aids digestion and a more active functioning of other body organs. Walking in the open air is an excellent form of exercise.

2. Mrs. Sarah Mapp, the notorious "bone-setter" or "shape mistress" as she was called. This fat, ugly, woman haunted the fairs of England around

1735, and acquired a great name as an expert in replacing dislocated limbs, which she appears to have done by reason of her great strength, rather than by dexterity. Her eccentricities added much to her fame, as did also her affected sobriquet of "Crazy Sally of Epsom."

3. The drinking of toasts was originated by Spanish monks in the 17th century and their toast was always drunk in milk.

Church on the Sabbath will be as follows:

9:45 a. m., Church School, under direction of Fred Herman, Jr., superintendent; 10 a. m., men's Bible class, taught by the Rev. James R. Gailley; 11, morning worship service, sermon by the pastor, "Right Choices;" seven p. m., senior Christian Endeavor; eight, evening worship service, the pastor will continue his series of studies in the Old Testament Prophets, the subject of the sermon being "Hosea, the Prophet of Mercy."

Friends Meeting

Barnard Walton, Philadelphia, brother of George Walton, principal of George School, Newtown, will speak at Bristol Friends Meeting on First Day at 11 a. m. The meeting house is located at Wood and Market streets.

"KNIGHT ERRANT"

by Jack McDonald

CHAPTER XX

Looking in his black dinner jacket and gleaming shirt as if he had just stepped from the pages of a gentleman's fashion magazine, Slim parked this roadster near the canopied entrance of an elegant apartment house on Sheridan road.

An elevator whisked Slim to the penthouse floor. He was met at the elevator door at the building's top by a neatly uniformed young colored maid, who ushered Slim into a living room overlooking the lake front.

He looked about the room. It had charm and individuality. The name of Edith's interior decorator was known to two continents.

Slim picked a copy of Turf and Field Gossip from a table and was gazing at a full page picture of Mrs. Ashleigh standing with Comanche after a recent winning race at Saratoga captioned, "Lovely Edith Wins Again," when he was aware of a faint rustle of silk in the room.

He was almost startled by the striking figure of Edith in a low cut pale green moire cocktail gown which seemed to contrast perfectly with her slightly olive, outdoor skin. At the track he had thought her beautiful, but wearily so. Now she seemed to glow with a dark rich loveliness that had made her the darling of photographers on two continents.

"Oh!" she exclaimed, with a softness that none the less failed to hide her astonishment as Slim rose to greet her.

Edith had expected a cruder type. Most of the trainers she had known were of the rough and ready sort.

"You're Mr. Maynard, of course," was Edith's salutation, "the man Mr. Biddle spoke of so glowingly."

"Yes, I'm Maynard. I have just been admiring your apartment."

Edith laughed softly.

With the feeling he would be more sure of his ground if he diverted the topic to one in which he knew both had a kindred interest, Slim nodded to a large painting, saying: "That's a fine likeness of Comanche."

"He's a darling, Comanche," enthused Edith. "I just think there's no other horse quite like him. But, Mr. Maynard, I've always maintained that it takes champagne to put one into the proper mood to appreciate Comanche. Wouldn't you like a cocktail?"

A good belt of hard Kentucky whisky, straight, would have been more to Slim's liking, but he managed to say:

"I'd be delighted, in a way that didn't sound a bit foppish or 'drawing roomy.'"

"Two champagne cocktails, Roxanna," Edith told the maid.

The champagne put Slim definitely at ease. Remembering Matt Biddle's suggestion that the most effective way to flatter Edith was to praise her horse, Slim started.

"I would have liked to see Man of War, Equipoise, Discovery, War Admiral, Seabiscuit, Coronado and Comanche all in the same race," Slim said. "Comanche would win—if he could catch Coronado."

"Coronado?" Edith asked.

ued without mention of Bassitt, "Knight Errant would have been truly a great stake horse up to the time he was permitted to race his heart out, pacing Comanche. But there's still a chance, Mrs. Ashleigh," he added fervidly, "if—"

"Isn't Knight Errant owned by a girl, Mr. Maynard?" Edith interposed.

"Yes

NEWTOWN LOSES TO BENSALEM; FINAL SCORE WAS 13 TO 0

OWLS KEEP UP THEIR WINNING SPIRIT AND TAKE SECOND GAME

Bob Scarborough Sparks The Team To Victory, With Lehr Aiding

LEHR DOWN ON PUNTS

Al. Driver Plays Good Game For the Newtown Indians

NEWTOWN, Oct. 14.—Riding the crest of a spectacular 7-6 win over Bristol High last week the Bensalem Owls were expected to have an overnight "let-down" as they went into their tilt with Newtown High here yesterday afternoon. But the let-down didn't come. Instead the Owls kept right on riding the crest of their victory wave and bowled over the favored Newtown Indians by a 13-0 score for their second straight conference triumph to keep on top in the loop standings.

It was mainly due to the sensational all-around play of Bob Scarborough, brilliant Bensalem fullback, that sparked the team to victory although Charlie Lehr, tackle, again was the main cog in the front line of defense. Besides being in on many tackles, helping to open holes for the Owls offensive attack, Lehr was again down on the punts, fast to down them before Newtown backs could return them on many occasions. Moreover, he was on the receiving end of the lateral that scored the touchdown that put the game on the "cooler" for the Owls.

Scarborough's fine running, punting, and passing led directly to both the Owls touchdowns. In the second period, his kicks kept moving the Indians back, then he tossed a sharp pass over the line that Bob Whyte carried 31 yards to put the ball in scoring position with Scarborough himself going over from the 4 yard line in an off-tackle slant on the following play. In the fourth period, his pass over the line to Dick Colher (who lateraled to Lehr with the latter scoring) was good for a net gain of 29 yards. What's more he returned several Newtown punts for substantial gains, and set up the situation for the second touchdown by breaking off the tackle and getting loose down the sidelines for 34 yards before being spilled out of bounds on Newtown's 27. Of course his punting, except for two in the last period, was the thing that kept Newtown on the defensive much of the time.

The Indians, too, had their aces who displayed brilliancy in their defeat. Al. Driver, the mainstay of the offensive attack, despite a possible broken finger or a badly sprained member of the left hand, stayed right in there throughout and played a fine game. He tossed several passes that connected for substantial gains and also ran well when given the pigskin. He didn't return many punts as he usually signaled for "fair catch" in an effort to try to "nip" the Owls off guard, but the invaders were on the alert all the time. Driver received his injury on the very first play of the game when, while blocking on the kick-off, someone stepped on his hand.

Except for a fine piece of broken field running by Joe Waldron, Bensalem halfback, who broke away for a 40 yard gallop from his own 18 to Newtown's 42 in the opening period, the first half was featured by the brilliant kicking of Scarborough and Pidcock in a punting duel with the former getting slightly the better of the affair.

Then with 2½ minutes remaining in the second chapter the Owls put the ball in play on Newtown's 40 yard line following an exchange of punts. On the first play Scarborough passed over the line to Bob Whyte, who took the aerial on the 35 and raced 31 yards to the 4 yard line before being downed. From there Scarborough cracked off tackle to go over standing up. The extra point try failed and, so shortly after when the half ended, Bensalem led, 6-0.

WILSON BOWLERS TAKE FOUR GAMES FROM AMOCO

"Wilson" took all four games against Amoco last night. For the first time in many years, Wilsons were completely outfitted in uniforms. This is the first time any of the bowling teams wore uniforms. Each man on the team wore white bowling shoes, black pants with a white stripe down the side, and white shirts with "Wilson" on the back. Mike Kondyra led the Wilson attack with a high score of 576. B. Nonini led Amoco with 532.

Texaco took three out of four games from Superior Zinc. Carlin led the Texaco team with a score of 459. Lefty Keating bowled a score of 487 for Superior Zinc.

PHILA. RED JACKETS TO PLAY RECS HERE SUNDAY

Football fans of Bristol and vicinity are in for another good game tomorrow when the Bristol Reds play the Philadelphia Red Jackets on Leedom's ground at 2:30 p. m. This club is neatly uniformed and has been playing good ball, not losing a game this season, having defeated Mt. Holly, Riverton, Camden Bears, Salem Oaks. The local club has been playing the best clubs in the semi-pro ranks, losing only to Wentz Olney.

Coach George Dougherty had the Reds out for practice two nights this week, breaking in several new players, and he is looking for a victory on Sunday. This will probably be the last chance for the Bristol fans to see the Reds in action at home this season, as they play York, Baltimore, Chambersburg, Lancaster Red Roses in a few weeks. The idea of Manager Mulholland booking so many home games at the start of the season is to get the club back in shape after several of the local boys were out with injuries, having turned down games at Sellersville and Lansdale Patterson wanting to make a good job when the Reds go on the road. Several of the Reds' players looked very good last Sunday against Shamahan, especially the seven mules in the local line. Crossley and Riley and Mellor certainly put pep in the backfield, and when Coach Dougherty gets back at quarterback watch the Reds fly. So come out on Sunday and show the boys that Bristol wants the calibre of ball that the local club is putting up.

and Diamanti face stiff opposition over the week-end. St. Ann's will go to Sellersville to meet the Sellersville Green Jackets. Diamanti plays Shamahan C. C. at Andalusia, although this game has not been confirmed as yet. The officials of both teams will meet tonight at Andalusia and final arrangements will be made.

Royal Oak, Mighty British Battleship, Sunk by "Sub"

Oak had a towering foremast and a tall crane. She also was equipped with a catapult for launching airplanes.

As if to minimize the impact of the news that one of the prides of the navy was sunk, the Admiralty announced that the three U-boats sent to the bottom on Friday the 13th were of the large, ocean-going type.

Loss of the Courageous and Royal Oak mark the sole submarine successes against the British Navy admitted by the Admiralty, although the Germans have claimed several war craft were hit by raiding bombers.

The Royal Oak was recommissioned June 7, 1939, after another extensive refitting, which made her one of the most modernly-equipped vessels in the fleet.

She participated in the Battle of Jutland during the World War, and was under fire in the Spanish Civil War.

Captain W. G. Benn commanded the Royal Oak.

TORRESDALE MANOR

Mrs. Edward Katzman entertained at two card parties this last week with Mrs. Henry Heacock winning first prize and Mrs. Charles Kuhn, Cornwells Heights, consolation, on Friday; and Mrs. Earl, Ford, Andalusia, and Mrs. Roscoe Perkins, Cornwells Heights, capturing the prizes on Wednesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Davis and Eva Williams are visiting relatives in Carbondale this week-end.

Mrs. Henry Heacock has been on jury duty this week in Doylestown. George Bishop is erecting a garage at the rear of his home.

Mrs. Francis Rossbauer visited her fatherland aunt, William R. White and Miss Hattie Esilbill, Vineland, N. J., on Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Lester Engle entertained on Sunday John Whelan, Hollis, L. I.

Elaine Bishop celebrated her ninth birthday on Tuesday evening with a party. Those present: Jean Vickers, Peggy Karcher, David Hornickie, John Heacock, Josie Edelmann and relatives from Philadelphia.

Miss Kate Clermont, Philadelphia, visited Mr. and Mrs. Harry Clermont, Sunday.

The Pederson family recently returned from an automobile trip through Connecticut.

WORLD WAR COST

CONSHOHOCKEN, Pa.—(INS)—The First World War cost approximately 250 billion dollars, Dr. J. Haverd, Sheppard, Baptist pastor, told a Sunday congregation.

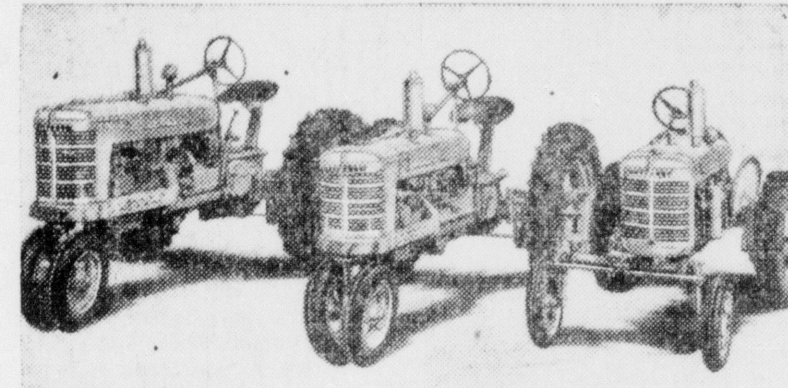

With that money, Dr. Sheppard pointed out, every family in the United States, Canada, Australia, England, Scotland, Ireland, France, Belgium, Germany and Russia could have been provided with a $2,500 house built on a $300 plot of ground.

PORTLAND, Ore.—(INS)—Mrs. A. Grohs awoke with a shriek when she found a big owl perched on her dresser solemnly eyeing her with interest.

The frightened housewife pelted the bird with pillows and whatever she could lay her hands on and then summoned the police. Two patrolmen dispatched to the scene quickly sent the still-unperturbed bird out the open window.
